Top racer lucky to be with us after his car disintegrates at 500kmh

Top Fuel drag king

bones in his back when his

But it could have been much, much worse
considering how

 Competitors in the Red Bull Air Race World Championships have to keep their wings level when passing through the top 40 per cent of a gate, as 2014 champion Nigel Lamb demonstrates in Rovinj, Croatia. But the next gate's in the other direction, so the competitors have to quickly accelerate and turn, pitching the plane on its side. The 14 pilots have other rules to follow, such

Digital tricks show how an expert pilot pulls a swift about-turn as never exceeding the 370kmh speed limit when they cross the start gate. Vomiting in the cockpit is frowned upon, too.

EMILY SCOTT

When ZOO favourites Emily Scott and Shane Warne split up after three months of dating last year — with nothing but praise for each other — the question was, did they mean it? Well, it looks as if the Sultan of Spin wasn't lying when he said he'd "remain awesome friends" with his first girlfriend since his marriage to Liz Hurley fell apart. He sent her this birthday Tweet just last week: "Happy Birthday A side, sending big, big cuddles to you. Have a fab day and hope you get spoilt rotten like you deserve xxx".

"IT'S ESSENTIAL TO HAVE SOMEONE YOU CAN EXPERIMENT WITH DURING SEX"

While her hair may have changed from brunette to blonde since they dated, Emily has remained just as hot, if not hotter than ever.

Scott and Warne split because he didn't want any more kids, and they didn't see eye to eye over food either. Warnie's never seen a pie without his name on it, whereas Scott "prefers to eat as many vegetables as I can because I just like them, and I guess that's lucky."

Back in 2009 Emily told ZOO that having a man who knows what he's doing in bed is "essential. It's important to have someone you can experiment with." We can't say for sure, but when it comes to sexual experience, Warnie might've fit the bill.

And Scott's been kind enough to share her thoughts on which chicks she finds hot.

"Jessica Alba, because she's naturally, effortlessly cool... and Angelina Jolie, she's the ultimate sex queen."

Her clubbing career's primary. She says, "DJing is perfection because I'm obsessed with the music and I love to perform live." These pics? Also perfection.

Khaleesi's smoking hot stunt double!

Thought Daenerys was the sexiest chick on Game of Thrones? Rosie Mac is here to prove you wrong...

MOTHER OF ALL
HOTTIES!

 Nudity, violence, nudity, sex, dragons, zombies, giants and back-stabbing — there's so much to keep the viewer entertained in Game of Thrones, with Emilia Clarke's firm but wise and totally rootable leader Khaleesi a definite highlight.

Now we've got another.

When Clarke's not on set, 18-year-old Pommy babe Rosie Mac more than capably fills her place as a stunt double.

"It was so surreal," she says of her time on the final season of HBO's smash hit. "Working in the heat was pretty difficult at times. We were mainly filming in the bullring, trapped in blazing heat.

"There was no wind, no breeze. Some of the extras were getting really ill because of it. But it was still one of the best experiences of my life."

She almost missed out on the break of a lifetime by skipping the audition to do a modelling job.

"I kind of thought, 'Why would they choose me anyway?'" But the director saw an picture of her online, and snapped her up.

Meeting Clarke was "mind-blowing", she says. "I kept trying to act cool. I already have a bit of a stutter and I was so nervous, it just got even worse."

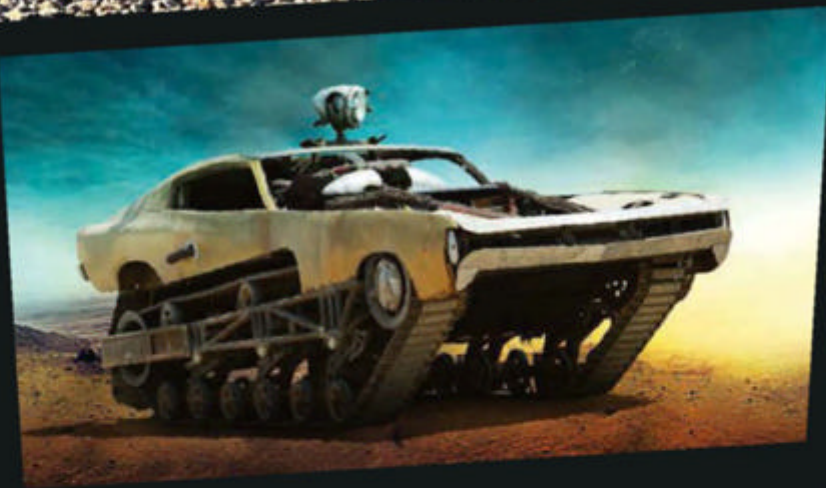

She adds, "Emilia is such a lovely girl... we mainly hung out in the shade, trying to stay pale." But the virgin white skin is where the similarities end. Unlike Khaleesi, who was broken in by Khal Drogo at a young age, Mac plans to remain a virgin until marriage. Gulp...

Mad Max TANK for sale

Go bush-bashing in style with the luxury twin-track monster that starred in Fury Road

Yes, you have seen Howe & Howe's Ripsaw EV2 before — it had a Chrysler Valiant Charger stretched over its frame and was dubbed "The Peacemaker" in Mad Max: Fury Road.

But having your design in a George Miller film is just another day at the office for twin brothers, Geoffrey and Michael Howe, the men behind the US company.

The all-terrain tank isn't reserved for the military to play with. Anyone with a few hundred thousand dollars going spare can have their own 448kW diesel toy with gullwing doors. It also comes with more bragging rights than pulling a supermodel while you're down with gastro and a hangover.

The Ripsaw's the next-gen model of the original, an unmanned hot rod which could hit 80kmh in four seconds. The Howes scrapped plans for it to be faster on the grounds it was "scary". But given they gave buyers of their off-road wheelchair, the Ripchair 3.0, the ability to customise gun racks, they clearly mean business.

The brothers set the tone early at the ripe age of six when they began by dismantling the family toaster and exploding stuff in the shed. Fast forward and the US military commissioned them to weaponise the original Ripsaw when they were just 31.

With an interior as deadly as the body, ZOO can't wait for their next move. Let's hope Miller's got them lined up for the next Mad Max...

Kiwi sheep farmer tells the drought to flock off in style

 They're a baaaarmy bunch across the duth. New Zealand farmer Mike Bowler's being bled dry by a months-long drought, so he spelled out his thoughts with his flock of 900 sheep.

He used the feed spreader to leave a trail for his animals, but had to be quick to stop the sheep in the first few letters scoffing the lot in 10 minutes and wandering off.

"Every now and again I get something silly in my head and do a bit of a squiggle," he said. "I've got 900 sheep following me around and they get in the way sometimes, you do have to be a bit careful."

Bowler, from north Canterbury, South Island, sometimes makes spelling mistakes — which is easy when his countrymen often confuse the letters u and i.

Having to fork out $1000 a day on feed for his sheep has tempted him to arrange something naster than the likes of "bugger". But he's bravely resisted the urge, saying, "When you do it right next to the road... this is a family program."

Minecraft dogs!

Cutting woofers' fur into cubes is all the rage in Japan

For a country that has a cable TV show where contestants have to sing while being wanked off, Japan's latest craze of shaping dogs' hair into blocks is relatively tame — and less messy.

Extensive research (ie. Googling "cube dogs") didn't offer any leads on the origin of this zany concept, but we're guessing a pooch groomer came up with the idea after munching on Japan's infamous square watermelon during a Minecraft marathon.

Aside from providing the internet with maximum LOLs, these clipped canines and their stupidly shaped noggins have the advantage of being easy to store — you can just stack them like a game of Tetris. If you plan on humiliating your mutt like this, be sure to sleep with one eye open, as they will no doubt be seeking a severe and bloody revenge.

The fastest supercar you've never heard of

Only a lucky — and obscenely rich — few will drive the Scuderia Cameron Glickenhaus SCG003S

 Pants were stained at the Geneva Motor Show when this GT-spec supercar hit the floor. It's the third release from James Glickenhaus, following his acclaimed P4/5 models, and the first to be truly original. The street version, shown here, looks like a Le Mans racer and has a turbo V12 under the bonnet, while the track-only model, which is heading for the 24-hour Nürburgring marathon and others, is powered by a Honda 3.5L twin-turbo V6. That donk chucks out just 395kW, but given the body and chassis are carbon fibre, it should still outrun the Ferraris of the world. The racer's $3m, the street car's $3.4m, but the modular design means you can convert between the two without too much drama.

WHY SHORT BLOKES GET THE SHORT END OF THE STICK

I'm crushing some pretty sweet headshots and my bio is high-octane hilarity, so obviously I'm no slouch in the match department on Tinder. But the second I wrote "six feet tall" at the end of my bio, my shit went next-level. If you're six foot or taller you should definitely say that in your "about me" section, 'cos it's a licence to print morning-after pill prescriptions.

I noticed a lot of girls out there were stating their height and then demanding that a guy be taller, which makes me feel sorry for shorter men. So I've hit back with this first sentence in my current bio: "I'm 91kg and you need to weigh less than that... Oh, I'm sorry — I saw all your 'must be taller than' requirements and thought it was open season." It's a little wake-up call for all those superficial broads who'd cry foul if you said "no fat chicks" but wouldn't f**k down a few inches to save their own life.

It's a shitty sexual landscape for short guys. Not only does almost every girl have a "must be this tall to ride this ride" label on her inner thigh, if you show the tiniest glimpse of anger, emotion or even cockiness everyone becomes a psychologist and diagnoses you with small-man syndrome. It's not a syndrome, it's a legitimate reason to be f**ked off with the world. If you're a 165cm dude, you need to make roughly $100k per inch per year before a woman finds you as attractive as a 183cm bum. The average height of men on the Forbes rich list is three inches less than the average height of all men, which goes to show what a short man can accomplish when there's literally zero pussy coming at him, ever. This is why the world is f**ked-up: short guys, angry about the zero sexual attention they're getting, turn into greedy, hyper-motivated megalomaniacs and accumulate money and power until their combined wealth topples female height standards by supplying their need for financial security.

What a woman finds attractive is personal and it's asking a lot to go against their biological hardwiring, but a girl can be any height and pretty much any weight and there are guys who'll find her attractive. We're far less discriminatory and shallow in this area, so meet us halfway, ladies. Put down the cupcakes and try going up on a short guy. You're doing everyone a favour.

You're my first match on Tinder, yippee!

ME: When you wrote "yippee" in the message were you imagining I would read it and then my vagina would kill 12 other people on this bus?

UNSUSPECTING DUDE:

Ha ha, no. Are you OK?

ME: I'm fine, but let's just say if you don't become more interesting, my pussy will steer this bus towards Port Arthur.

UNSUSPECTING DUDE:

I'm going to be totally honest, I'm just looking for some no-strings-attached fun. If you're looking for anything more than that, I don't want to waste your time. Let me know if you want to have some fun.

ME: What a coincidence, I'm actually on here looking for a casual STI, a sort of no-strings-attached infection that I can clear up with some antibiotics. If it's a more long-term kind of disease you've got, I don't want to waste your time. But if you've got something treatable, let's have some fun.

THE MOMENT THAT GAVE UFC FANS A HEART ATTACK!

After the longest title reign in UFC history, Anderson Silva was in a rematch with the man who dethroned him, Chris Weidman, when his leg went snap, crackle, pop. Many thought that'd be it for one of MMA's all-time greats, but Silva was able to recover and fight again with help from a sports psychologist.

Oh snap!

MMA'S MOST SHOC

NOPE, THAT'S NOT TOMATO SAUCE...

After a gruelling night in the Octagon, most fighters need a lot of ice, a beer and a lie-down. After his 2008 bout with BJ Penn, Joe Stevenson looked like he needed a large blood transfusion. Penn had opened a small cut on his forehead but sadly for Joe, it was right on a vein. Anyone sitting at ringside that night would've gone home splattered in enough claret to make them look like a stabbing victim.

HOW TO MAKE A SHINBONE LOOK LIKE A WET PRETZEL

Corey Hill earned the nickname "Three Knees" when his tibia and fibia snapped like bread sticks as he kicked Dale Hartt in 2008. He reckons he heard it break before he felt it...

WICKED ELBOW SHOT LOOKS LIKE IT HIT AN ARTERY!

Antonio "Bigfoot" Silva's bash-a-thon with Mark Hunt in Brisbane 18 months ago is one of the greatest heavyweight bouts ever. The action was non-stop and Bigfoot's forehead turned into a blood fountain midway through.

"EXCUSE ME. IS THERE SOMETHING WRONG WITH MY NOSE?"

Andy "Ice Cold" Eichholz had more chance of breathing through his ears than he did of breathing through his snout after getting KO'd in the first round of a heavyweight fight last January. The bridge of his nose got smashed so far over to the right that it's almost touching his eyeball, and the doctors probably just wanted to amputate.

"MY JAW'S GOT A BIGGER CRACK THAN NICKI MINAJ'S ARSE!"

Kiwi heavyweight Mark Hunt could punch Superman's chin through the back of his head, so when he landed a massive left hook flush on giant Dutchman Stefan Struve in their 2013 bout, his jawbone didn't stand a chance. The blow opened a huge chasm that had to be closed with enough wire to run the length of the rabbit-proof fence.

NO, HE WASN'T FIGHTING MIKE TYSON

When Kazushi Sakuraba lost this fight in 2010, he told the crowd, "Sorry, my ear came off." And so it had... a big part of it, anyway. Doctors were able to reattach it. Spectators were unable to keep their lunch down, though.

OUCH! THAT'S NOT WHAT AN ANKLE IS SUPPOSED TO DO!

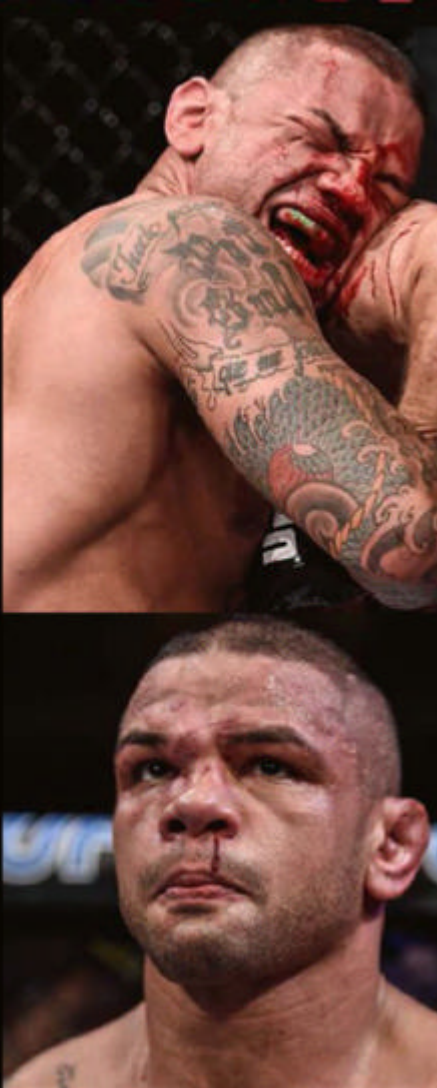

Mirko "Cro Cop" Filipovic should count himself lucky that a kick from Gabriel Gonzaga KO'd him in 2007. That way he didn't have to feel his right ankle turn 180 degrees in the wrong direction as it crumpled under him when he fell. In what the Catholic church will no doubt recognise as a miracle, he escaped with nothing more than some ligament damage.

That's not right!

THE FIGHTER WHO DIDN'T HAVE A LEG TO STAND ON

You know leg kicks are taking their toll when a fighter has to be carried back to his corner. That's what happened to Urijah Faber when Jose Aldo ruined his thigh by smashing it for about 25 minutes non-stop back in 2010.

LOSER'S BUSTED NOSE HAS MORE BENDS IN IT THAN A CRAZY STRAW

Thiago Alves didn't just lose his recent welterweight bout against Carlos Condit; he also got his shnoz spread all over his face. The bridge of his nose looked like it had collapsed under a barrage of shots from Condit and the poor bloke was off to hospital straight after. He's going to need Cher's plastic surgeon to fix that mess.

SAVAGE KNEE GIVES BLOKE A BIGGER NOSE THAN PINOCCHIO

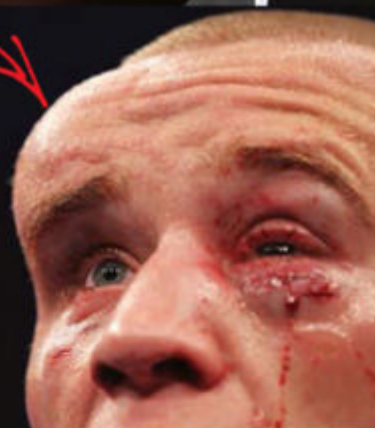

Back in 2011 Ryan McGillivray was training when he copped a knee to the face because he "bobbed when I should've weaved". Afterwards his nose was so badly broken and swollen that he looked like the Elephant Man. Not that it seemed to bother the Yank when he took this photo and posted it on his social media. He's survived much worse, like a broken back when he was just 16.

HOMINICK'S HEAD BLOWS UP LIKE A HOT AIR BALLOON

There wasn't a baseball cap in the world that would've fit Mark Hominick after his 2011 war with Jose Aldo. His forehead swelled up so much it ended up about the same size as an IMAX screen and made him look like one of the aliens out of Mars Attacks. Thank God Aldo didn't land a shot on that bump or it would've exploded in a huge shower of blood.

That noggin' took a floggin'

THAT'S NOT A CUT... THIS IS A CUT!

Forget using stitches to close this thing up — when the doctors treated Marvin Eastman after his 2003 fight with Vitor Belfort they should've used a bunch of spackle to fill in that huge hole. Deadset, it looks like it could be used as a reservoir. Eastman lost by TKO after Belfort's knee opened up his head like it was a piñata. If his mates didn't start calling him "Grand Canyon face" after this, they should've.

THE WEIRDEST MOVIES EVER MADE!

SOCIETY: A SEX-CRAZED WINDOW INTO FEDERAL PARLIAMENT

As far as conspiracy movies go, Society is a cracker out of a crackhead's darkest fantasies. See, up at the upper echelon, our Western society is actually ruled by shape-shifting incestuous beings who enjoy sex-ercising their power behind closed doors with violently gooey orgies that make your average bukkake video look like Sesame Street. Of course, when our teenage hero discovers members of his family "shunting" each other, no-one will believe the horrible truth. Watch this and tell us you don't think deep down it's what happens in Canberra all the time. You'll have to buy it on eBay or Amazon.

FOR Y'UR HEIGHT ONLY

Heaps of actors have played 007, but only one actor could play Agent Double Zero. Weng Weng, star of 1981 Filipino James Bond spoof For Y'Ur Height Only, based his career around being an arse-kicking action hero who was... 84cm tall! Yep, he made Tyrion Lannister look like Shaquille O'Neal. Weng fires M-16s, leaps from roofs and does all sorts of martial arts high-kicking to vanquish Mr Giant and his bad guys.

And, in true 007 style, Agent Double Zero utilises gadgets, including X-ray specs and a poison-detecting ring, and beds hotties, despite his disturbingly large nipples and squeaky overdubbed voice. This cult classic is also awesomely violent, with our puppet-sized hero killing 83 people in just 88 minutes. Weng Weng returned in a sequel, The Impossible Kid, and For Y'Ur Height is on YouTube in its entirety. Prepare to be amazed.

MIDGETS AHOY IN THE TERROR OF TINY TOWN

This 1938 flick has heroic cowboy Buck Lawson fighting villainous Bat Haines in a clan war, with sexy Nancy caught in the middle. So, it's a standard B-grade western — except the entire cast are midgets. Billed as "a rollickin', rootin', tootin', shootin' saga of the great outdoors", it features 60 little folk who walk under the swinging saloon doors before they saddle up on ponies. Some of the cast would go on to bigger smaller things in The Wizard of Oz. Fifty years later, the Dead Kennedys paid homage to The Terror of Tiny Town by including clips from the flick in their Rawhide music video. Now the whole thing's free on YouTube... yeehaaaaah!

FREAKS: TOO MUCH CASTRATION!

■ In 1932, fresh off his success with the original Dracula, producer-director Tod Browning ruined his career with Freaks. Partly based on his own experiences growing up around a circus, it's the story of carnival freaks who band together to exact revenge on a beauty and a musclemann. The cast largely comprises real-life sideshow performers, including conjoined

Siamese twins, armless, legless and limbless men and women, a human skeleton, bearded lady, hermaphrodite, pinheads, a bird-headed dwarf and assorted midgets. Browning's horrific 90-minute vision of revenge — including scenes of castration and mutilation — was cut to a 64-minute version on release, and it's still shocking. It's on iTunes!

CAPTAIN KIRK GIBBERS AWAY IN INCUBUS

■ William Shatner has trouble getting the words out at the best of times, as his constipated-sounding Captain Kirk proves. So why you'd choose him to star in a horror movie entirely filmed in the made-up "international language" Esperanto is anyone's guess. But that's what happened in 1966's

Incubus, when Bill was as a young soldier who stumbles upon a village with magical water and hottie demons who are after his manly essence. Or something like that. It's hard to tell when the dialogue is gibberish you'd be ashamed to slur after sucking down a goon bag of Fruity Lexia. On YouTube.

ATTACK OF THE KILLER TOMATOES

■ Conceived as a spoof of movies like The Birds, 1978's Attack of the Killer Tomatoes became a cult flick in an era when LSD was plentiful and Saturday Night Live was the high-water mark of American comedy. To be fair, it's a goofy, rapid-fire send-up in which anti-tomato measures fail until it's discovered they're weakened by a song called Puberty Love. Tim Burton would rip off the idea for his own monster movie satire, Mars Attacks. Killer Tomatoes was profitable enough to inspire numerous sequels. Some champion has done a 10-minute version of Attack on YouTube, which might be enough for you.

SEE THE TINGLER, GET A FREE ELECTRIC SHOCK

■ In the 1950s, producer William Castle came up with all sorts of gimmicks to keep audiences coming to his low-budget horror movies. His best was for 1959's The Tingler, about a parasite that lives at the bases of people's spines and can only be beaten if the victim screams. The most famous scene has the Tingler loose in a cinema. It was announced then that the creature had invaded the actual cinema, with the only hope of survival for the audience to scream their heads off. Selected seats were even wired up to give mild electric shocks to the moviegoers' arses. Just try getting away with that shit today! The Tingler's available legally at the Internet Archive. Shocks not included.

SLEEP: IT DOES WHAT IT SAYS ON THE TIN

■ Andy Warhol is most famous for his pop-art paintings of soup tins and celebrities like Marilyn Monroe. But the white-haired weirdo was also a filmmaker whose early work tested boundaries. His 1963 short film Blow Job was a close-up of a dude's face as he copped a blowie. Next year's Sleep featured 321 minutes of a guy sleeping. Even that plays like a Michael Bay film compared with Empire—eight hours, five minutes of a single shot of NY's Empire State Building. Watch excerpts on YouTube. Set to repeat for full effect.

PULGASARI: NORTH KOREA'S CRAP GODZILLA!

■ Like Goebbels, North Korean tyrant Kim Jong-il was a movie fanatic. The crazy mofo was such a fan of South Korean director Shin Sang-ok that he kidnapped the filmmaker and his wife in 1978 and forced them to work on his nutty fantasy propaganda films. The best-known is Pulgasari, a 1985 Godzilla rip-off featuring a giant dino-lizard who helps peasants battle the evil overlord raping and pillaging feudal Korea. It was the last movie Shin made before he escaped Kim Jong-il's clutches while on business abroad. Weirdly, the Japanese special effects experts who worked on the Godzilla films weren't above helping out with the destruction scenes. They even managed to get an original Godzilla stuntman inside the Pulgasari suit. Yep, you can see it free on YouTube.

KOLBERG: ANOTHER HORRIBLE NAZI MISTAKE

■ With the Allies kicking butt in 1944, you would've thought the Nazis had a pretty tight to-do list: A) cut off Hitler's head and preserve it in a glass jar; b) power up the Satanic-dark-energy UFOs and GTFO. Instead, Joseph Goebbels made a movie that cost eight million marks and used thousands of German troops! Kolberg, set in Napoleon's time, didn't wrap until August 1944. That's after D-Day, meaning precious military resources were wasted. By the time Kolberg was screened in early 1945, there weren't too many cinemas left to show the flick. It's on YouTube—in German only.

INCHON!: THE MOVIE TOO CRAP FOR DVD

■ While Kim Jong-il was kidnapping directors, cult leader Reverend Sun Myung Moon was using his followers' millions to fund anti-North Korea propaganda piece Inchon!, one of the biggest film flops of all time. This turkey recreates the famous 1950 Korean War battle of Inchon and holds General Douglas MacArthur up as a god-like saviour. Lawrence

Olivier hams it up as the American military hero, facing lines like "You shall return—but in time for dinner!", while the sub-plot's straight out of a soap opera. Released in 1981, Inchon cost $US132.3m in today's money but grossed less than $5.7m. It's so bad it's never been on video or DVD, but fortunately it's been uploaded to YouTube for your hilarity.

HOBITIT: IT'S FINNISH FOR "CRAP FANTASY FILM"

■ The word "Hobitit" conjures up hideous visions of Bilbo Baggins with a big set of bazoogas. The truth isn't quite as ghastly, but it's every bit as odd. See, back in 1993, Finnish filmmakers made a nine-part adaptation of Tolkien's The Hobbit and The Lord of the Rings—Hobitit, which translates to "the Hobbits". Anyway, the whole epic story's adapted in low-budget live action, with, as one site put it, Gollum looking like a "Finnish man imitating a homeless lime". See it in its full glory on YouTube, then watch Peter Jackson's version by way of apologising to your eyes.

RUBBER: THE ADVENTURES OF A SERIAL KILLER TYRE

There have been plenty of dumb horror movie creatures, from giant rabbits in Night of the Lepus to overgrown shadow lobsters in Teenagers from Outer Space. But the prowling killer tyre of Rubber takes the prize for the worst ever. Not because it's stupid — we love stupid in Z-grade flicks — but because this is an arty French movie with "something" to say about violence and the audience and zzzzzzzzz... Bore yourself via iTunes.

EVER MADE!

ARE YOU BRAVE ENOUGH TO WATCH PINK FLAMINGOS?

In 1971 John Waters made his name with the cheap-as-chips cult classic Pink Flamingos. The story, loosely, is about drag queen Divine's attempts to retain her title as the filthiest person alive. Scenes include a man exposing himself with a rubber chicken tied to his dick, an obese woman dressed like a baby in a cot, a hippie demonstrating his singing arsehole, and Divine sucking off the actor who plays her son. But Waters saved his masterstroke for the end of the film: Divine follows a poodle along a Baltimore street, waits for the pooch to pop out a poo and then eats it right up—all to the tune of (How Much is) That Doggy In the Window. Pink Flamingos turns up on SBS regularly. Taxpayer dollars at work!

THE ROOM: SO CRAP IT'S AWESOME!

Written, produced, directed and starring Tommy Wiseau, The Room is a serious-as-a-heart-attack drama about a nice guy who's betrayed and backstabbed at every turn by his evil bitch girlfriend and faithless best mate. Get ready for recycled sex scenes, meaningless hello-and-goodbye-dialogue, manic outbursts from our hero in which he sounds like Borat Schwarzenwalken, and the dumbest football scene ever. The dire-logue is endlessly quotable, and you want to see The Room with an audience for the full effect. There are screenings at Adelaide's Palace Cinemas at the mo'. Like herpes, it'll pop up elsewhere until the end of time.

THE WEIRDEST MOVIES EVER MADE!

CRASH: THE FLICK THAT MADE PRANGS SEXY (SORTA)

David Cronenberg has made some weird but excellent horror films, like Scanners, but his arch exercise in strange is 1996's Crash. James Spader, Holly

Hunter, Rosanna Arquette and Elias Koteas star in this filmic, ahem, vehicle that explores fetishism via a story in which sexually frustrated characters find fulfilment by copulating in and around cars and car crashes. The pedal's really put to the mental when our anti-hero Ballard sticks his old-fella into his lady Rosanna Arquette's vadge-shaped car-crash wound. Get this at your local DVD store. Don't pick the boring Oscar winner of the same name by mistake!

AUSSIE NUDISTS GALORE IN MASLIN BEACH

A serious drama about life, love and sex that's set entirely on South Australia's famous nudist beach of the same name. From start to finish, our characters wear their birthday suits as they enact a series of mini dramas and comedies that are like Z-grade Woody Allen scenes and skits. At one stage we pause to hear how a bloke had his dick super-glued into a pussy, listen to an ice-cream truck driver's philosophies ("If you don't fart you don't shit, and if you don't shit you die") and marvel at a huge naked woman belting out opera. YouTube's got it. Don't say we didn't warn you.

DEATH BED: THE BED THAT EATS

Zero-budget director George Barry started his bed-horror-epic back in 1972 and finished it just five years later, only to find that no-one wanted to distribute a movie about a killer bed. Bizarrely, nearly 25 years later he learned it had been released on DVD and become a cult sensation.

A demon rape leads to the creation of the Death Bed which, throughout the ages, lures lovers and sucks them into its innards so it can strip them to skeletons. The movie's on YouTube. Don't want to waste 80 minutes of your life? Check out Patton Oswalt's very funny routine about the film.

ERASERHEAD: 80,000 TIMES WEIRDER THAN TWIN PEAKS

David Lynch has made his career out of being the strangest cat in Hollywood. But even Twin Peaks, Wild at Heart and Blue Velvet don't compare with his 1977 debut for mind-f**kery. Eraserhead tells the sort-of story of Henry Spencer, a big-haired oddball who's on vacation. And what a holiday! He's invited to carve mutant oozing chicken when he goes to his neighbour's place for dinner and is made to care for a ghastly mewling freak baby that may not be his. Then there are his hallucinations, not least of all the all-singing, baby-stomping Lady in the Radiator. For sheer weirdness, it's unforgettable, with an audio track seemingly created by scraping Satan's cock along the underside of Metallica's tour bus. Available for gawping on iTunes!

UN CHIEN ANDALOU WILL LEAVE YOU BRAIN-DAMAGED

You know Salvador Dali as the twirly moustache dude who painted dripping clocks. But in 1929 he co-directed one of oddest movies ever made. Un Chien Andalou — "An Andalusian Dog" — is 16 minutes of surrealist stream-of-consciousness in which ants swarm out of wounds and a man dressed as a nun cycles about the city. But the most infamous scene occurs when a man takes a straight razor and appears to slice open a woman's eyeball. It's been grossing people out for 85 years and still sickens today. Free on YouTube, if you dare.

WAS CANNIBAL HOLOCAUST TOO REAL?

Zombie moves, TV shows, games and comics are a dime a dozen now. But none of them compare with this savage Italian horror flick. Released in 1980, it's a "found film" movie that depicts what happened when a documentary film crew ventured into the territory of Amazonian tribespeople. Stuff you won't see on The Walking Dead includes castration and vaginal impalement. Everything looked so real that it was rumoured to be a snuff movie. In the end, director Ruggero Deodato had to produce his actors in court to prove he hadn't killed them. Available on DVD. Look in the kids' section at JB Hi-fi... not.

MOM AND DAD: WHEN SEX ED BECOMES PORN-LITE

Back before mainstream cinematic porn in the early 1970s, people flocked to "educational" films to see naked people. The most successful was 1945's Mom and Dad. In this low-budget "sex hygiene" movie a naive young woman gets busy with an air force hunk. He dies. Soon after she discovers she's putting on belly weight because — gasp! — she's preggo! The show-stopping draws were photos of the female anatomy and actual footage of a baby being delivered. Amazingly, it played for decades. The entire shocking spectacle is on YouTube, with the birth scene at 01:16:00, you perv!

You could go over Mariana Davalos with an electron microscope and still not find a fault

ZOO didn't think we could be more in love with Colombian Mariana Davalos. Then we found out she has a twin sister, Camila. They both have black hair, curves that defy physics and those big Latin bums that make us want to drink tequila in large quantities. They were born in 1988 in Lexington, famous for the Kentucky Derby, before moving to the city made famous by Pablo Escobar, and starting to model aged 10.

Mariana was the quieter of the girls, seeing pimping lingerie as a means to buying clothes and pressies. But she's clearly become more extroverted since, with social media littered with sext shots and a TV presenting gig behind her on Rumbas de la Ciudad. Oh, and she models with her “soul mate” sister whenever she can.

She also appeared in a reality TV show called The Tolima Farm for a prize of 300 million pesos, but was just the second person to get booted off. Which brings up an important question: what’s wrong with the TV audience in Colombia? Don’t they know you don’t boot off the hot chick until the quarter-finals at the earliest? Must’ve been jealous girls voting...

How well do you know your State of Origin?

Take ZOO's totally serious quiz (not) and find out just how cluey you are...

01

What's the name of the pub the NSW team used to drive past in the bus on the way to the ground, coping huge amounts of abuse and even the odd beer can thrown at the windows?

- A) The Banjo Players Arms
- B) The Caxton Hotel
- C) The Pub With No Fear
- D) Feargal Sharkey's Irish Alehouse

02

When the Origin concept was getting off the ground, only three clubs opposed it. They were...

- A) Easts, Souths and St George
- B) Norths, Cronulla and Manly
- C) Newtown, Canberra and Parramatta
- D) The New Zealand Warriors, Parkes Spacemen and Wigan

03 NSW and Queensland played each other before the Origin concept came into being. In which year did their first game kick off?

- A) 1948
- B) 1972
- C) 32BC
- D) 1908

04 In game three of the 1997 series a huge brawl kicked off when NSW used the signal developed by their coach, Tommy Raudonikis: calling "Cattle dog!" in the scrum. Hooker Andrew Johns came off second best and needed 27 stitches. Who belted him?

- A) Brett Dallas
- B) Darren Lockyer
- C) Jamie Goddard
- D) His brother Matthew

05 In 1999 the Blues looked set to give Queensland all sorts of trouble. But then gun forward Robbie Kearns broke his collarbone in the lead-up to game one and was out for the series. How'd he injure himself?

- A) In a mishap during tackling practice at training
- B) In a mishap in the weights room
- C) He fell off a horse
- D) In a game of Twister that got waaaaay out of hand

06 Which of the following footballers only played one Origin game?

- A) Adrian Brunker
- B) Arthur Beetson
- C) Ziggy Niszczo
- D) James McManus

- D) Ben "Foetus" Ikin

08 Who was the first Queensland Origin coach?

- A) Wayne Bennett
- B) Frank Stanton
- C) Andrew Voss
- D) John McDonald

09 When NSW player David Williams scored a meat pie in game three of the 2009 series despite getting kicked in the mouth by Johnathan Thurston, he created Origin history. How?

- A) By becoming the first NSW player to win man of the match on debut
- B) By becoming the first player to pull out his own tooth as a post-try celebration
- C) By becoming the first player to score a hat-trick on debut
- D) By scoring Origin's first eight-point try

10 Game two of the 2009 series was a first for Origin. Why?

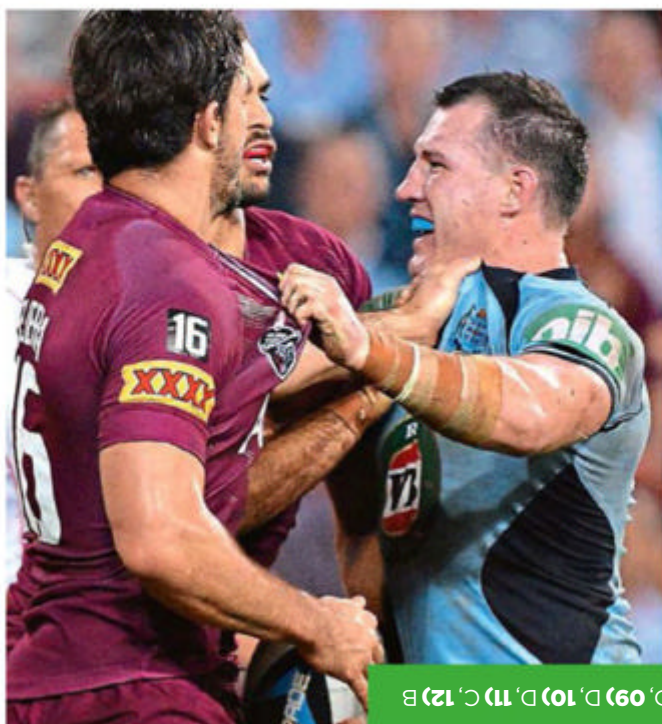

- A) It was the first game played in Port Moresby
- B) It was the first time Origin had sold out the MCG
- C) It was the first time Origin was played with two refs on the field
- D) It was the first time every club in the NRL provided a player for an Origin game

11 When Origin held an exhibition game in California in 1987, current Nine commentator Peter Sterling showed the Yanks how tough league players are compared to their gridiron counterparts. He did this by...

- A) Playing on despite breaking his nose in a tackle early in the game
- B) Getting a cut stitched on the field so he could continue playing
- C) Failing to break through the banner the NSW players were meant to run through as they hit the field
- D) Breaking his arm, using his jersey as a sling and turning in a man of the match performance

12 What was the legendary Allan Langer doing before Wayne Bennett pulled Origin's biggest selection shock to bring him back for the Cane Toads' triumphant 2001 series?

- A) Working as a roofer in Toowoomba
- B) Playing for Warrington in the UK
- C) Running a restaurant on the Sunshine Coast
- D) Appearing as a co-host on Playschool

Deadly ICE CLIMBING in Africa!

Yes, Africa, not Antarctica.
We double-checked...

Will Gadd recently became the latest addition to a club that only has two members. The Canadian adventurer is now just the second person to scale the ice at the top of Mount Kilimanjaro, the highest point in Africa.

It's a big deal for a lot of reasons, not least the fact that the ice at the summit is disappearing so fast that no-one will be able to equal his feat in just five years.

On top of that, just getting to the ice was a hell of a job. It took a week of hiking to reach it, and it's bloody tough going when you're almost 6km above sea level and suddenly you have to get yourself up a deadly wall of frozen H<sub>2</sub>O.

"Doing 50 pull-ups at sea level is tough," Gadd explained. "Doing them at 6000 metres is a lot tougher." He also had to deal with temperature changes that made the ice as unstable as ZOO's editor.

CARLY, 26

"I broke up with my long-term fella and realised I wanted something different: just fun... just sex! After signing up to ZOO Singles I had access to hundreds of guys minutes from where I live. At first I was quite shy, but after a few days I'd had amazing sex! With a new guy to please whenever I feel like it, I've never felt so satisfied!"

DESIREE, 43

"I find men my age cannot keep up with my highly active sex drive, so I prefer the effort put in by a horny 20-something. One guy wanted me so badly he would contact me in the middle of the night to meet up! It turned me on so much knowing how badly he wanted sex. I guess there's a certain appeal to a woman with experience in the bedroom."

TARA, 21

"I work nights in a hotel and my sex life suffers, so I signed up to ZOO Singles. I wanted one guy right away so I suggested he pay me a visit at work. I checked him into a room and after a few minutes I got a very sexy room service request. With customer service a priority, I put a 'Do Not Disturb' sign on the door, and then he began to rip off my clothes!"

THE BABE FROM AUSSIE HORROR CHARLIE'S FARM!

The LA-based hottie on working with Tara Reid and Nathan Jones

Your Charlie's Farm co-star Tara Reid gets a bad rap in all the gossip mags — what's she like in real life?

She does and she admits that. She's had a bad run, but in real life she's just like anyone else. We were in the same apartment complex when we were filming, so I got to see her a lot off-set, which was good because I got to see what she was normally like. She's grown up in this industry since she was seven so she doesn't know any different. She doesn't know what it's like to do things for herself — for example, washing clothes. I helped her with that. I felt for her because she just wants a normal life. She wants to settle down and have kids. And

Tara Reid and Allira on the Charlie's Farm set

What was it like working with the man mountain Nathan Jones from Mad Max?

He'll hate me saying this but he's the biggest softie! He is just the sweetest man. I will forever have him as a friend. He was a favourite among everyone. I actually caught up with him before the Mad Max: Fury Road premiere in LA.

Is it important for guys to be buff like Nathan?

[Laughs] No, that's not important for me. Him as a person is amazing. That's what everyone loves about him. I'm all about good personality and good humour.

Girls like bad boys. The murderous psycho Charlie is pretty bad. Did you find him attractive?

No, I'm not attracted to Charlie at all [laughs]. Everyone likes a bad boy but that's a little bit too much... I'd worry about my life.

Do you get nervous when your family watches a graphic film like this?

I think they're used to it by now. Every film that I've done has been with Chris [Sun, director]. He's given me a great start but they've all been gruesome — that's his style — so I don't feel nervous because they're all fine with it. I think the worst thing for me will be when it's an intimate scene. Knowing that my dad will watch that... that'll be hard.

Er... we hope not!

Nathan Jones as Charlie

here I was wanting her success — she's done really well but she's succumbed to the awful media.

Was she a princess while filming out in the Australian outback?

Um... at first, there were little moments where she expected things, but after a while, I think she realised it was a low-budget film and not a big blockbuster and was like, "Oh my god, this is so much fun!" She had a lot of fun and she got out of her trailer and sat with us where we all ate.

BABE WATCH

HOTTEST
NEW GIRLS

NICE TATTS

Sydney babe Jemma owns a modelling promotions company. She's also a tattooist's worst nightmare. Can you imagine trying to keep a steady hand on that ridonk body?

SWEDE DREAMS

Natalie is a 26-year-old Swedish stunner living on the Gold Coast. She looks tastier than IKEA's meatballs, and is put together way better than their flatpacks.

LEND A HAND

Manchester minx Sally Anne Chambers appears to be having trouble containing her bazoogas. The line to help starts in Melbourne and ends in Darwin.

FLOAT YOUR BOAT

From right to left, eight of the UK's best floaties thanks to Sarah Goodhart, Sally Anne Chambers, Amber Mae and Rebecca Kelly. Between them they could raise the Titanic.

CHAPPIE

[MA15+]

5/10

THE GIST: It's the near future and robots are policing the streets. It's big business, so the powers that be are suitably pissed when a developer (Dev Patel) reprograms a bot, Chappie, so it can think and feel. Chappie is abducted by some local gangsters (Die Antwoord's Yolandi and Ninja). A mulleted engineer (Hugh Jackman) is charged with tracking Chappie down and destroying him. ZOO SAYS: Neill Blomkamp (District 9) messes the tone up and is on a worrying downhill run, especially now he's helping Alien V.

WILD

[MA15+]

8/10

THE GIST: The death of Cheryl Strayed's (Reese Witherspoon) mother (Laura Dern) hits her hard and sends her on a destructive path involving drugs and rooting around on her husband. She eventually hits rock bottom after getting divorced and decides to walk the 4200km Pacific Crest Trail all alone with nothing but an over-sized backpack to keep her company. ZOO SAYS: You'll need to keep the tissues handy — and not just for the nude scenes — as this is one helluva emotional true story. It might sound like an Into the Wild rip-off, but holds its own thanks to some great acting, writing and directing.

FOCUS

[MA15+]

7/10

THE GIST: Seasoned conman Nicky (Will Smith) understandably falls for sexy novice con artist Jess (Margot Robbie). He fears they're getting too close and abruptly breaks it off. Three years later, the former flame—now kick-arse con—shows up in Buenos Aires and throws Nicky off his game while he's trying to pull off a motorsport con. ZOO SAYS: The sleight of hand scenes are cool, as is the super-tense scam at the footy game. It's quite light and fluffy, with a few decent twists. But, let's be honest, Margot Robbie is the best thing about it.

SELMA

[M]

8/10

THE GIST: Covers the three-month period in 1965 when Dr Martin Luther King Jr put his life on the line to lead a march from Selma to Montgomery to secure equal voting rights. ZOO SAYS: Brilliantly acted by David Oyelowo and Tom Wilkinson, this is a violent history lesson that won't bore the shit out of you.

ADVENTURE

BLACK SAILS: SEASON 2

[R18+]

8/10

THE GIST: Set two decades before Treasure Island, this violent and sexually explicit series picks up with the Walrus crew trying to overcome the Spaniards guarding the precious Urca gold. ZOO SAYS: Like Game of Thrones on the sea, Black Sails is quickly becoming a cult favourite.

MASSIVE OPEN WORLD!

IT'S BACK!

FALLOUT 4

Developers have finally opened the vault on the sequel to the much-loved Fallout 3 in the form of a trailer, which teases some post-apocalyptic Boston scenes for the action RPG. The gameplay areas look brighter and more colourful than before, ditching the 50 shades of green. We also saw glimpses of super mutants, ghouls and flying machines, plus the return of power armour, the Pip-Boy wrist device and a snippet of your character in the classic vault suit.

RESIDENT EVIL 0 REMASTERED

The prequel to the classic Resident Evil series is getting an HD remaster for consoles and PC in early 2016. Originally made for the old GameCube console, those fuzzy graphics will be raised from the dead and given the 1080p, 60fps spit shine. We'll once again join the S.T.A.R.S. police force, switching between officer Rebecca Chambers and convict Billy Coen. Sweet!

XCOM 2 HAS LANDED!

The previous game, Enemy Unknown, made turn-based strategy games cool again, now the sequel is headed our way. Set 20 years in the future, humanity has lost the war and the aliens have us all in balls and chains. The XCOM organisation is largely forgotten, but must strike back to reclaim Earth. More soldier classes, customisation and modding support is on the happening list.

INTRODUCING THE TECHNOMANCER

Sure, it sounds like a DJ name from a '90s rave party, but he's actually a slick cyberpunk fighter from the secret police who uses electric-based attacks. The new post-apocalyptic RPG is set on Mars and it's coming to PS4, Xbox One and PC. Combat's action-heavy and features three different fighting skills that can be upgraded with four skill trees. Dynamic conversations will play a big role in quests, with your choices changing the story, plus you can craft equipment, weapons and armour.

INDIE ROCK

EVERYTHING EVERYTHING

GET TO HEAVEN

SOUNDS LIKE: This UK four-piece are a mix of Alt-J art rock and the "anything goes" style of TV on the Radio. Experimental pop best sums it up.

ZOO SAYS: Jonathan Higgs' falsetto and intelligent lyrics are a breath of fresh air on catchy and creative tracks like To the Blade, Distant Past and Regret.

INDIE ROCK

SASKWATCH

SORRY IF I LET IT COME BETWEEN US

SOUNDS LIKE: The jazz/funk/soul band discovered busking in Melbourne have stripped back their sound. Apart from upbeat opener I'll Be Fine, it's mostly slower and more soulful.

ZOO SAYS: Nkechi Anele is a powerhouse vocalist, backed by some subtle, smooth and sexy trumpet, keys and geetar.

SYNTH ROCK

YOUNG GUNS

ONES AND ZEROS

SOUNDS LIKE: Sadly, not a tribute to the classic '80s Western. These UK lads play shiny stadium rock in the same vein as Coldplay, The Killers and Anberlin. ZOO SAYS: They've got the right look, sound and cash behind 'em, now all they need is more songs like Rising Up.

6/10

ELECTRONIC

HUDSON MOHAWKE

LANTERNS

SOUNDS LIKE: Six years since his Butter debut blew minds, British DJ/producer Ross Birchard has taken time out from being Kanye West's go-to collaborator and dished up another eclectic offering to the hungry masses. There's hip-hop, ballads, slow jams, upbeat electronica and glitchy instrumentals.

ZOO SAYS: Always at the front of the pack, this is an exciting taste of where electro music is at right now, and where it's headed.

8/10

PALACE OF THE KING

WHITE BIRD/BURN THE SKY

SOUNDS LIKE: Blues-drenched rock'n'roll that's heavily indebted to Black Sabbath, Led Zeppelin and Deep Purple. ZOO SAYS: The debut from this Melbourne six-piece is a guitar lover's wet dream. Like Airborne, it's meat and potatoes rock, with too many riffs to count and some tasty organ licks thrown in for good measure.

COMEDY

MINIONS

[PG]

THE GIST: Those funny little yellow buggers from Despicable Me now have their own spin-off/prequel. After accidentally killing off their masters over history — including T Rex, Genghis Khan, Napoleon and Dracula — the clumsy clan isolate in Antarctica and become depressed without a master. Kevin, Stuart and Bob end up in New York after a long boat trip and compete for the right to be henchmen for the evil Scarlet Overkill (Sandra Bullock).

ZOO SAYS: It's a bit childish, but fans of Despicable Me and people with kids will get a laugh out of it.

6 THINGS
TO SAY
DOWN
ABOUT...

SILK ROAD

The head of the dark web's drugs bazaar has been sentenced — and the story's not over yet...

1 Ross Ulbricht (pictured, above) who dreamt up the Silk Road black market, pleaded the judge for leniency. Instead, he got life in prison, no parole, and was ordered to pay $236m — the prosecution estimate of sales via Silk Road

2 The maximum sentence possible went beyond even what the prosecution was calling for. Ulbricht's lead attorney called it "unreasonable, unjust, unfair" and his team say they'll seek an appeal

3 Authorities argued the sentence should send a deterrent message to the other dark web drug markets that have sprung up, including Silk Road 2, Evolution and Agora. There are now dozens flouting the law

4 Two agents that helped arrest Ulbricht have been charged with wire fraud and money laundering. The DEA's Carl Forge allegedly kept hundreds of thousands of dollars of Bitcoins from Silk Road

5 Forge is also accused of acting as a paid informant for Ulbricht under two pseudonyms — and trying to blackmail him under a third!

6 Aussie Silk Road moderator Peter Nash was released from custody after 18 months' time served. He told the All Things Vice website he spent almost as much time on the site — he spent his $1k a week Bitcoin salary there on drugs — as at work. He said the job offered him camaraderie and friendships
